

BROWN COMING TO TALK OF PARKS

Head of Chicago Playgrounds Will Meet Janesville People Wednesday.

Janesville will be given an unusual opportunity next Wednesday to hear a speaker who ranks foremost among the doers of the country in the field of public recreation. It is easy enough to propound theories on most any subject, and the public forum is overcrowded with professionals who discuss in a more or less verbatim manner every problem having to do with community welfare, without themselves ever having put into practice a single one of their fine sounding theories. A. K. Brown who is scheduled to deliver two addresses here on Wednesday is not a professional theorist lecturer. He is kept pretty busy right along applying every bit of knowledge and energy in his command to practical problems affecting the leisure time activities of several million men, women and children, who are served by 14 parks and embracing parks located in outlying communities that do not differ in many respects from Janesville. The first address will be at 3 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. in connection with the Rock county recreation institute. Janesville people can well afford to turn out in large numbers at that hour, as well as for the great community mass meeting in the high school auditorium at 7:15, when Mr. Brown will give a second talk on a different topic. The afternoon topic will be "Recreation and Character Building." Evening, "Community Objectives of Play."

Save Money in Building the Fireplace for Your New Home

Do you know that you can build a fireplace including a beautiful Radiantfire gas heating unit at a saving of $100 to $300 over the cost of an old fashioned fireplace?

No expensive brick flue and ash pit required. Just a simple terra-cotta vent. The Radiantfire makes the fireplace many times more useful and attractive. It does away with the mess and work of building fires and removing ashes. Costs less to burn than a wood or coal fire and gives eight or nine times the heat.

Installation expense is so small that you can build two or three fireplaces instead of one. Many builders install them in apartments to solve the early Fall and Winter heating problem.

The RADIO PROGRAM

The British plan of having each radio listener pay a license fee now provides sufficient revenue to permit the British Broadcasting company to improve the program, install new transmitting equipment and to conduct experiments in the estimated that there are approximately 500,000 receiving sets in England. New wave lengths were adopted by the British stations on Dec. 16, 1923, and in most cases better transmission has resulted. Fourteen programs are interrupted regularly in Algeria. The wave lengths of London and Newcastle have again been altered. The revised wave lengths are as follows:

2140, London, 365 meters; 280, Newcastle, 350; 613M, Birmingham, 385; 2275, Manchester, 400; 585, Glasgow, 420; 504, Cardiff, 425; 517, Liverpool, 475; 2141, Aberdeen, 455; Sheffield (relay), 502.

The Forestry department has put radio to an interesting use in connection with its Pacific Coast service. In an effort to curtail the appalling ravages of forest fires, radio is being used extensively. The small patrol launches that work along the coast are equipped with sets having a range of 60 miles. They are simple to operate and are easily manipulated by the boat's crew. The forestry department reports that it has already found them of great value in this work.

Making its radio debut in WJZ's studio during the past week, an actor from a Broadway musical show started his talk by shouting into the microphone:

"You don't have to shout," whispered the announcer.

"But I must," insisted the actor, "I understand I'm talking to people in Chicago, and I want them to hear me as well as people in New York."

Although no broadcasting stations have been established in Spain, there is considerable interest prevailing for radio receiving sets of sufficient range to receive broadcasts from Paris, London, Berlin and London. It is reported that the principal obstacle to a more extended use of radio receiving apparatus in Spain is the lack of technical knowledge on the part of the radio materials. Spanish auditors in Bilbao experience more difficulty in receiving from Paris than from London, apparently due to the fact that there is little intervening land between Bilbao and London.

WILL MAKE CHECK ON TEST PETITIONS

Shortage of Funds Stopping T. B. Testing in Wisconsin.

Lack of funds is seriously curtailing Wisconsin's program for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. This was predicted when the legislature failed to pass the $1,000,000 appropriation for the Schramm bill, and the failure of piece-meal work is evident. Southern Wisconsin, having the largest number and the best quality of livestock, has not yet been placed on the accredited area, despite the fact the southern belt of counties pay more than half of the taxes of the entire state.

Because of the shortage of funds, accredited herd work has been slowed up, the testing by practitioners stopped, while in Rock county alone there are more than 300 applications on file from dairymen demanding the test. It is estimated that Rock county has approximately 2,400 signers on the petition for the county-wide or area test. Next week these petitions are to be checked against the tax returns showing the number of cattle owners, and a final effort made to either obtain the desired number of signers, or, if not possible, to have the state and federal authorities.

Rock county needs the area test and needs it badly, for it is predicted that in the time the amount allowed for indemnity will be reduced, and year after year the restrictions are drawn tighter to bar the sale of untested livestock. The lack of funds for indemnity of reactors, and the fact that Rock has not been area tested, is preventing good cash sales on cattle and a premium on hogs. The petition is made the Wisconsin will sell 75,000 head of dairy cattle to out-of-state buyers the coming year. Southern Wisconsin is vitally concerned as to how much of this business comes this way. Farmers desiring to hold an auction of tested cattle, or make a sale, are compelled by the shortage of funds to take all the loss for no further testing except on area work or accredited herds is authorized by the state and federal authorities.

Despite the fact that the quality of the cattle in the northern section cannot compare with that of Walworth, Jefferson, Walworth, Green, Dane and Rock counties, these areas are not getting the true proportion of the cattle sales for the reason the northern counties are tested.

The map shows that the "lean belt" is drawing close to the southern border counties. At the outside, Rock does not need more than 150 more signers to put it in line for the area test, and there are 100 in the waiting list for the area test, and no great amount of funds available. The Farm Bureau is going to wage an active campaign to put the area test in place, and is favoring the test by a big majority of the cattle owners.

A survey made by Dr. Arthur Knutson, Janesville, shows that the leading breeding places in the state there were 1,268,129 hogs killed last year, and out of this number 77,000 were from the north. The percentage in both Wisconsin and Chicago markets shows that hogs from districts where dairy products are sold show an average infection of 25 per cent, while those from the north, requiring the proper pasteurization of dairy by-products, is expected to reduce this percentage materially. However, complete eradication of bovine tuberculosis is the only complete remedy to stop this loss on hogs, which figures around 25 cents a head, for the loss on infection is charged right back to the producer by the packer.

The accredited herd work has made remarkable progress in Rock county during the last year, the number being about doubled. But the trouble is in putting new herds under supervision to meet the demand because of the shortage of funds.

An effort will be made at the next meeting of the legislature to carry out a larger appropriation to carry on a more extensive and effective area clean-up campaign and retesting program. John Jones, Jr., president of the Rock county Farm Bureau, has taken a progressive step in the T. B. problem by insisting on a re-test in counties on the accredited list, to keep these counties free from disease.

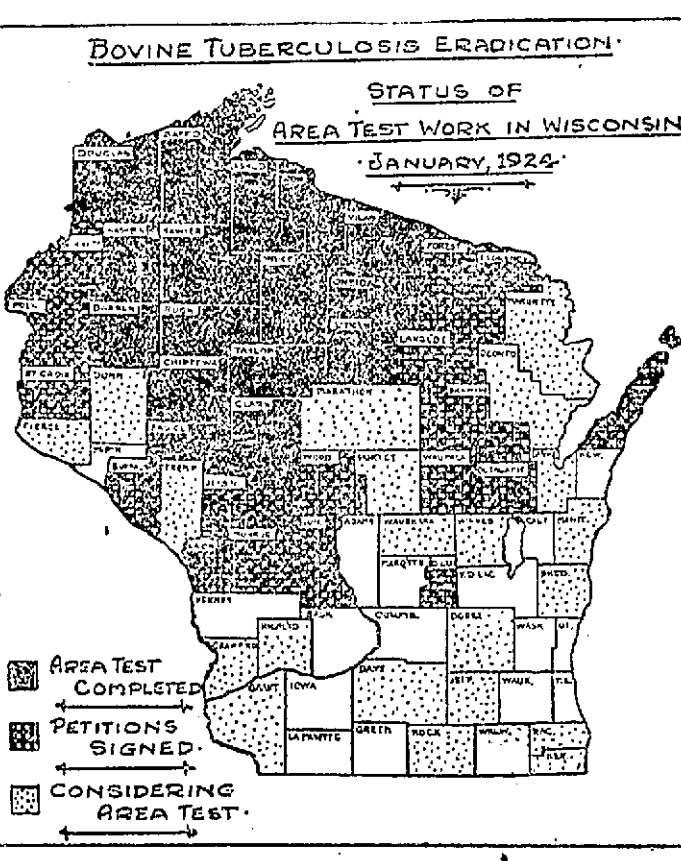

Petitions for the area test are being held in the Farm Bureau office in Janesville for signers, and will be circulated in a few districts. Any cattle owner in the county interested in the test is urged to apply for a petition or come into the bureau office to sign.

Rock county wants to be "first" in southern Wisconsin on the area test.

INTERMEDIATE TYPE HOG FAVORED BY CONSUMERS

The best bet in hogdom is the medium type of porker. This despite the facts and fancies of many judges who have sought the extreme type to tie the blue ribbon. The American consumer has decreased quality pork, lean meat on light cuts, and refuses to be enticed by pork blubber. Remember back to the hard days when the chaffy, wallowing fat hog was the type. This undesirable variety passed out along with the demand for hard, for the old hog was a veritable land ball. Now the other extreme is a narrow-middled, long-legged, "wensel" variety, just a reverse of the old hog. Department of agriculture exhibits show that the intermediate type is favored by the packers, having more valuable cuts of meat than either the chaffy or extreme hog-back style with too much daylight under the chine.

"I want a hog of the medium type, not too low, nor rolling in fat or with too long legs," reports Harry Duddy, veteran breeder of good hogs. "I want depth and a real ham on the pigs—porkiness of what the judges say, for the farmers are going to buy hogs that dress right. The extreme type of hog is too hard in feeding and you are nervous in his feed. I have no more of a ham than a toothpick."

Daddy, like a lot of other hog breeders, believes the hog market is pointing up. He points out that too many unfinned hogs have been dumped on the market, along with a shortage of broad hogs, to keep the price down for buyers. "We should keep some in the hog business. I certainly believe in the medium type to meet the demand of the pork buyers. Watch how the housewife in the city goes to the butcher shop and turns up her nose at fat pork. The American taste has changed for light and lean cuts and there must be a hog established for that demand. After all, it is the housewife who is the one who sets the style in hogs. You cannot sell fat bacon any more. They want streaks of lean. Quality pork comes from breeding and finish, and I am convinced that the intermediate type is going to win in the end."

JEFFERSON BREEDERS SIGN SALE CONTRACT

Adoption of a uniform contract, assuring a written agreement between the buyer and seller of cattle on the bovine tuberculosis question, is being suggested between the Illinois Farm Bureau organization for Illinois and Wisconsin farm organizations and breed associations. The first of such contracts was signed recently between the Jefferson county Holstein breeders' association and the L. A. A.

SEEDS

There is a shortage of good seed this year and we advise you to buy early. We will not handle any seeds of inferior quality.

grow bumper crops
Your farm won't grow big healthy crops unless you plant clean, healthy, vigorous seeds. Considering your time and labor and your investment in land and farm machinery you can't afford to buy any but dependable seeds. Rainco field and grass seeds and seed corn are satisfactory because of their high uniform quality. We recommend them.

BAND MAKES HIT AT STOCK EXHIBIT

Showing the famous $100,000 team of champion horses, a touring horse show, a brilliant array of blue blooded stock, the Wisconsin Little International held the attention of 5,000 people at the stock pavilion at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture Friday night. The show will close Saturday night.

The Janesville high school band, attired in the new uniforms and playing with the skill that would rival the university band, featured the program on the opening night. The band won unstinted applause from the spectators and the concert was broadcasted from the University radio station.

As a witness to the stock program, three students attired in white uniforms bearing the county sweepstakes banners won by Rock county at the state fair came into the arena. Then came Walcott Olla Hildner, champion Holstein bull, shown by Jack C. Nisbet, Rock county livestock agent. Near the center of the ring, the felt blanket—blue and gold—was draped over the animal, stood like a black and white marble statue—the living Holstein model. The beauty and posing of the animal brought a great cheer from the ringside, and returned on the stage, side, and returned on the stage, side, and returned on the stage, side.

There was ringing applause when the Wilson and O'Connell's massive Clydesdales took the ring to be driven around by Frank Housley. With every buckle, bit of brass or trimmings shining, these great draft teams spun the horse around the arena in a startling manner. Highly active, huge in size the horses responded to the slightest touch and whisked around as they were urged, went in circles and twined in and out.

The high school stock judging contest, in which Milton Union is a contestant, will be completed Saturday.

The high school band was entertained by the Madison Kiwanis club. The band and about 100 people from the county attended the show Friday night and returned on the special train reaching Janesville at 11:20 p.m.

Saturday the stock will be judged and students awarded prizes for fitting and showing their stock.

George Sory, coach of 1924, one of the herdsmen with the Rock county show herd last year, is general manager of the show.

University officials were high in their praise of the support given the exhibition by Rock county. It is the first year a two day show has been attempted.

Rock county has also offered to negotiate the same contract to put the business of selling livestock on a higher plane of confidence and honesty.

The Illinois Farm Bureau took action last fall to stop bootlegging of diseased cattle by unscrupulous cattlemen. A reward of $100 was offered by the I. A. A. to be matched by the different county units, for the arrest and conviction of a bootlegger of tuberculous cattle.

Under the new sale contract, the seller agrees to refund to the buyer the purchase price of any animal which may react to the tuberculosis test within a designated period, and the salvage value. Certain requirements are made of the buyer, such as keeping the purchased animal under sanitary conditions and proper notice to the seller of the time and conditions of the test.

Representatives have presented the plan to Rock and Jefferson counties in Wisconsin and it is expected Rock will follow the lead of Jefferson county. The livestock department of the Farm Bureau taking over the contract with the I. A. A. of all breeds of cattle.

Lake Geneva—Edwin Arnold was elected president of the Lake Geneva Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting held Monday. Peter Peterson is vice president, Clark Haddock, recording secretary, and Elmer Antcliff, treasurer.

Persons and Places Oil Scandal Brings Into Limelight

Tipping The Teapot

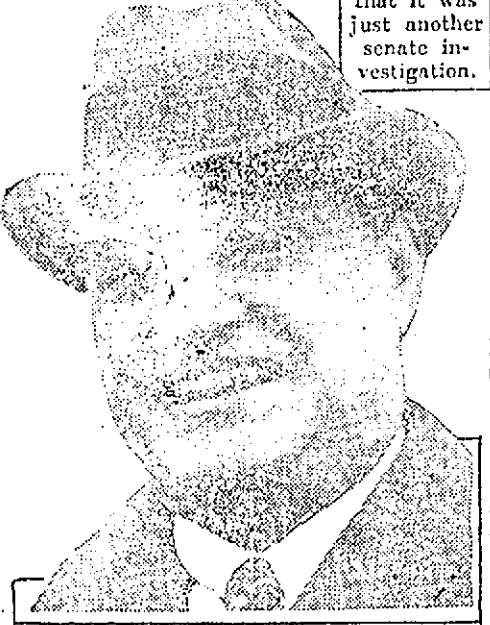

LAFOLLETTE—Started tipping the teapot. He exposed stock deals and sponsored a resolution calling for a quiz.

THE TEACUPITY—Of Sen. T. J. Walsh, Montana, in quizzing witnesses resulted in contents of Teapot being spilled, after Washington, bored by the slow progress of the quiz, decided that it was just another senate investigation.

$150,000—Was paid W. G. McAdoo for advice by Doheny, but the former was not connected with the leases.

TRUE FRIEND—E. L. Doheny sent $100,000 in cash to Fall in trade for an unsecured note from which he tore the signature. Doheny obtained lease on a reserve in California, estimated to contain 250,000,000 barrels of oil.

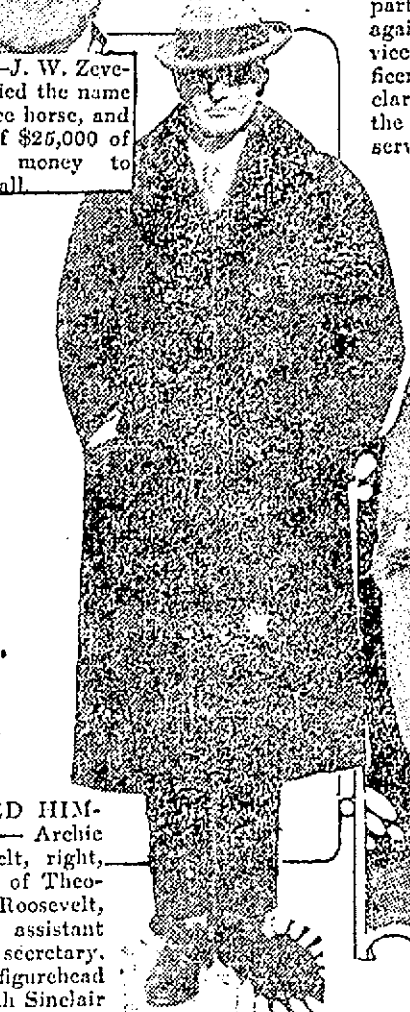

BYSTANDER—Edward Finney was assistant secretary of the interior under A. B. Fall.

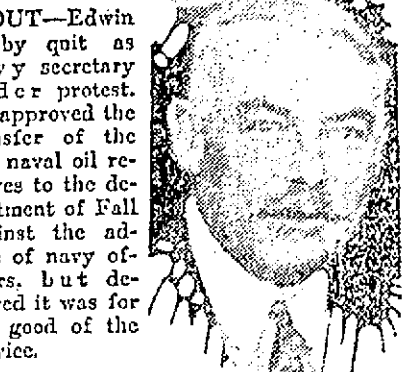

THE LEADING MAN—In the drama, A. B. Fall, ex-secretary of interior. He received more than $134,000 from H. F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny.

FIRED HIMSELF—Archie Roosevelt, right, brother of Theodore Roosevelt, left, assistant navy secretary, quit a figurehead job with Sinclair when he learned of irregularities in oil leases. Theodore's offered resignation was waved aside.

CLAMOR—For the resignation of Harry Daugherty, attorney-general, went up after it was revealed he placed official approval on leases.

OUT—Edwin Denby quit as navy secretary under protest. He approved the transfer of the last naval oil reserves to the department of Fall against the advice of navy officers, but declared it was for the good of the service.

GOOD IDEA—Was what Rear Admiral Julian Latimer thought of transfer of reserves to Fall.

FOR THE GOVERNMENT—Special counselors named to prosecute the case by the president are Atlee Pomerene (above) and Owen J. Roberts (right).

ON THE GRILL—A view of the probe committee of the senate in session the day E. L. Doheny (8) told his amazing story. The members of the body are Senators Thomas J. Walsh (1), Robert Stanfield (2), Reed Smoot (3), Irvine L. Lenroot (4), Key Pittman (5), C. C. Dill (6), Ralph Cameron (7).

CANCELED CHECKS—For $68,000 made out to "Tom" Johnson, Fall's ranch foreman, caused Sinclair interests worry.

OIL, OIL, EVERYWHERE—And not a politician in sight. View of one of the fields connected with the scandal. It was to prevent "drainage" of government lands by large numbers of wells like these, belonging to outsiders, that A. B. Fall leased them, he explained.

$187,000—Was spent on this ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., by A. B. Fall after, it was understood, he was "broke." He paid $8,000 back taxes, bought additional tracts of land for $91,500 and $33,000, built a $40,000 hydro-electric plant, and put $25,000 into other improvements on it.

Another Reason Why —

Buick Body Construction

In constructing its open car bodies, Buick uses bolts in fastening the metal braces to the wood, instead of ordinary screws. These bolts passing completely through the wooden frame prevent joints from loosening under driving strains. A more than usual number of bolts secure the Buick body to the chassis, holding it rigidly in position and entirely eliminating all squeaks and rattles.

Tips on Night Driving

If you have ever taken a run on a clear moonlight night along a highway leading through green country fields, you will have enjoyed one of the most pleasant experiences you will ever have with your car. Unfortunately, however, we cannot always choose the above combination when we are driving at night, and it is necessary, not only for our own, but for the comfort and safety of other users of the road also, that we have our lighting equipment in perfect order.

First, examine your reflectors to see that they are bright. These rarely require touching as they are generally silvered, and do not tarnish very quickly. If they are dull, polish with a little SILVER POLISH. Do not on any account use a polish that is used to clean nickel or brass, as they usually contain acids that will quickly ruin the silvered surface.

If the reflectors are all right, then test the adjustment to see that the lights are focused properly. To do this select a road that is level and that has a wall or door on which you can throw the light of the lamps when you are about 25 feet away from it. Measure the height from the ground to the center of the headlights, then draw a heavy line on the wall at this height. Now mark spot where center of radiator cap would touch line, then draw two vertical lines 14 inches on either side of this mark.

If you use anti-glare or magnifying lenses, remove them while you focus the lamps. Now turn on the lights, but cover up one of them so that you can focus one lamp at a time. If the adjustment is correct, the lamp will throw a beam of light 2 1/2 feet wide on the wall that the center of the beam cutting the vertical line.

Now check up to see that the top of the bright circle of light does not come above the line you have drawn on the wall. If it does, then the lamps will glare. To correct, tilt them down until the top of the bright beam just tips the line.

Turn on lights, then go round all lamps and move the wires about where they enter the lamps, noting if the light flickers or goes out when you move the wires. This will enable you to find out if you have any loose connections. Examine the ground connection especially to see that it is tight. Trace all lighting wires from the lamps to the switch, to see that there is no sign of rubbing. Tape up with black insulating tape any wire that shows signs of rubbing.

If you do very much driving at night, it is a good idea to carry a pair of smoked glasses or one of the blue visors used by bookkeepers. Either of these articles will enable you to see clearly when you meet a car with glaring headlights. Suppose, however, you are out on the road and meet a car with glaring headlights coming toward you and you do not happen to have either glasses or visor. DO NOT attempt to strain your eyes trying to see the whole of the road in front of you, but slow down, shade your eyes with the brim of your hat and steer by keeping your eyes on the edge of the road. The driver approaching you can see you quite well, and if you keep over to the right side of the road, you will not run very much danger.

It is a good idea to fit a spot light for night driving. You will find it helpful in a number of ways. First, it is a great aid to driving if you direct the beam so that it falls just a few feet ahead of the car and lights up the edge of the road. If your headlights are not very powerful, you will find the spot light of great assistance in making driving safer both for yourself and cars approaching you, as the spot light used in this way does not glare.

If you have a tire to change or any small adjustment to make at night, you will find the spot light of great assistance. There is nothing more annoying than to have to do something to your car at night and not have sufficient light to work by.

When you are driving in low country you sometimes encounter thick fog or mist that makes driving very disagreeable and dangerous. Very bright headlights are not of much use, as they simply reflect the white mist back into your eyes, producing the same effect as glaring headlights on a car approaching you do. If you can secure a piece of yellow or orange colored paper or cloth that is not too dense, tie it over the front of the headlights, and you will find, that although the light is dull, still it penetrates the fog and enables you to see much better.

Aided by determination, Thrift and Consistent Efforts Makes Home Ownership a Reality

AMBITION, CONFIDENCE, DETERMINATION—These are the three qualities that lead infallibly to great success. AMBITION that says: "I MUST"; CONFIDENCE that says: "I CAN"; DETERMINATION that says: "I WILL". And the last is the rarest of these.

There are millions who say "I MUST"; there are thousands who say "I CAN"; but there are hundreds only who add "I WILL".

Without this third quality, this supreme quality of Determination, Ambition degenerates into mere petulant dissatisfaction, and Confidence is nothing more than empty egotism.

Children say "I must"; Fools boast "I can"; None but the wise, courageous and strong dare say "I WILL".

Centuries ago the great Roman poet Virgil, describing a boat race, accounted for the fact that the weaker crew won, in his ringing epigram—"They can who THINK they can." It is true, because those who really think they can, WILL to do the thing—and it is done.

Through all the ages it has been true; it is true now; it is as true to you as it was to those ancient rowers, as it was to Eugene Sandow, Handel, Johnson, Goldsmith, Franklin, Greeley, Abraham Lincoln, and to all firm, heroic souls who could not be content except with the very best of which they knew themselves to be capable.

The handicaps of poverty, of poor health, of lack of opportunity were not handicaps to them, but splendid spurs. What they have done, we can do. And what we can do, we will do, if we WILL.

This is the key to wealth, and the door to power, and the way to Home Ownership.

Ambition that says "I Must"—Confidence that says "I Can"—Determination that says "I Will".

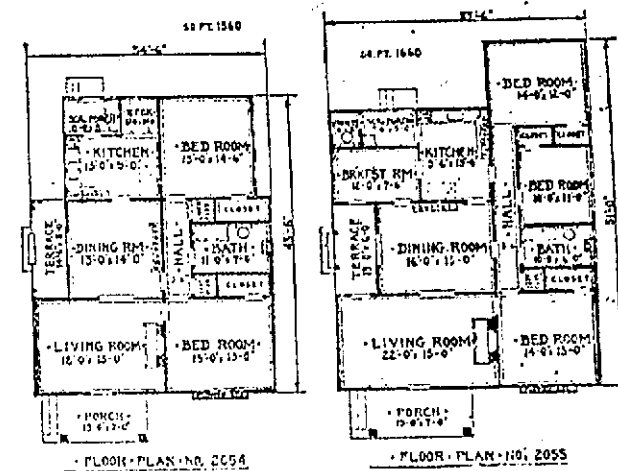

Now, Ambition is natural to all who have red blood in their veins, and Confidence may be developed surely upon the granite base of special training for the work you want to do, but to get this training—to take the time and to do the work that will assure you of your own ability to make good—there is needed this third quality of Determination.

This quality may also be developed. It is the product of practice, and it is neither needful nor wise to start with great things. Sandow did not begin with hundred-pound dumb-bells. Handel practiced his scales before he played his oratorios. Lincoln learned the law before he aspired to be a lawmaker. Just so is it the part of wisdom to build within your reach.

When it comes to CONFIDENCE some of us are a little weak. Fear lurks before every move toward progress and yet the success of the hundreds who have already passed the danger mark, who are now proud possessors of homes of their own, clearly demonstrate that it only takes COURAGE and DETERMINATION to win—and you can own a home if you Will.

With AMBITION to start on the right track; CONFIDENCE to lead and encourage us along the way, and DETERMINATION to keep you EVER-LASTINGLY AT IT, the success of your undertakings will be assured.

Let's begin overcoming obstacles today by making arrangements to build a modern, distinctive, convenient home.

PLANS NO. 2054—2055

Here's another model bungalow home for your consideration and its every detail of construction will stand the most careful and rigid inspection. Particular home builders choose it as their favorite.

The exterior should be painted white, cream or light yellow; and the rose trellis, flower box and trimmings in some soft tone to harmonize. The roof is constructed of shingles with double row every seventh course and stained green.

The alternate floor plans speak for themselves—both are compact and carry maximum of labor and time saving conveniences.
